Art Of India

Since, laminates are all about textures and patterns, they find their origin from different cultural art itself.

We exhibit the art of India by bringing out folk art of its different states and regions. A madhubani art from Bihar, kalamkari from West Bengal, tribal art from the north-east etc. Being culturally diverse & distinct in it's variety, these forms have evolved over the years, giving the art a unique sense of admiration in their own might. This way, we also bring in the common thread of culture that binds every tier together.

The incredible journey

Greenlam is among the world's top 3, Asia's largest, and India's No. 1 surfacing solutions brand. With its presence in over 100 countries, Greenlam has focused on developing quality products with a great passion for innovation. # NEW TEXTURES

Chikankari is a traditional form of embroidery from Lucknow, India. It is done using a fine, white thread on light-colored fabrics such as muslin and cotton. The detailed work is characterized by its delicate and intricate designs. While the motifs and designs are mostly floral, the Paisley motif with a bean-like appearance, has palm leaves, grass stalks, birds and animal motifs like peacock and butterflies, and geometrical and styled patterned motifs, making the art possibilities limitless.

Showcasing the pride of India, these textures of GreenTouch is inspired by this historical art of India. Add a piece of elegance to your homely spaces with this range of GreenTouch and bring home Indian art, the pride of India.

This range is inspired from a popular art of Madhubani. The Madhubani district in Bihar is renowned for its traditional painting style called Madhubani or Mithila Painting. This art form has been practiced for generations in Bihar and is considered one of India's most beloved and recognized forms of art. They depict a diverse range of subjects, from gods and goddesses to everyday scenes of people going about their daily lives. This diversity of themes is what makes Madhubani Painting a timeless and enduring art style. Add a piece of heritage in your home with this range and make it a heritage den.

WOODGRAINS

Block prints of India are everlasting forms of Indian folk art. This range is inspired from the famous Rajsthani block print, Bagru which originates from a small village of Rajasthan. The original Bagru style of printing traditionally uses floral, leaf and geometric motifs on textile. These are hand carved wooden blocks and naturally sourced dye that makes Bagru an authentic art. However, in recent decades, designers from the west have worked closely with these local artisans to create Indo-western patterns which are inspired by art and nature which gives it a much more contemporary look and keeps the art alive.

ABSTRACTS

This range is inspired from one of the oldest forms of embroidery originating from India, Kantha whose origins can be traced back to the pre-Vedic age (prior to 1500 BCE). Kantha is a traditional form of embroidery from India, mainly practiced by rural women in the states of West Bengal, Bihar, and Odisha. The motifs used in kantha embroidery typically depict everyday scenes, nature, and religious or mythological figures. The art form is known for its simplicity, yet it creates rich and detailed designs. The meaningful motifs make for a beautiful abstract for your home and brings in the essence of rural India to your spaces.

SOLIDS

This range is inspired from the very famous, Phulkari art of India. This is a traditional form of embroidery from the Punjab region of India. The word "phulkari" literally means "flower work". The designs in Phulkari are simple and geometrical, usually featuring large flowers, birds, and other nature-inspired motifs with the use of bold and bright colours. The Phulkari is an important part of Punjabi culture, and it is traditionally created and worn by women. It is a cultural art form, passed down through generations of women and today has been repurposed and adapted as a part of home decor and fashion items.
